FAIRVIEW CEMETERY APPOINTS OFFICERS

Nine Directors Also Elected for Ensuing Year—Sale of Stock is Satisfactory.

Officers and directors of the new Fairview cemetery association were elected at a meeting held in the office of George F. Eberhart, Wednesday night as follows: President, R. E. Perkins; vice president, George F. Eberhart; secretary, W. L. Kimball; treasurer, J. H. Chandler. The board of directors is as follows: Simon Ward, R. E. Perkins, G. F. Eberhart, W. L. Kimball, S. H. Thornton, G. B. Brittain, C. A. Ostrom, H. G. Englestone and J. H. Chandler. The election of officers and directors is for one year.

It was reported at the meeting that the sale of stock in the corporation was most satisfactory so far, and that the indications pointed to its being all subscribed within a reasonably short time.

Surveyors and engineers are now at work on the ground, which was formerly known as the Stocking farm, on the north side of the city, and which will be in readiness for burials within the 60 days specified by the terms of the franchise granted by the city.

When all the improvements contemplated on the property are completed, it is expected that Mishawaka will have a cemetery of which it will have reason to be proud.

Fred Bingham, who drew up the articles of incorporation, acted as secretary of the meeting.

"THE LOST PARADISE" AT THE TEMPLE TODAY

H. B. Warner, the eminent dramatic favorite is showing today at the Temple theatre in "The Lost Paradise." This play is conceded to be the greatest drama of capital and labor ever written, and was adapted from the German original by the late Henry C. DeMille, collaborator in the famous Belasco-DeMille plays.

"The Lost Paradise" is a powerful pictorial argument in belief of the oppressed laborers whose lives build the wealth of nations, whose tears are crystallized in the jewels of the rich. The inspiration of the original play was suggested by the army of tired toilers who spin blindly in the dark.

In the story, the superintendent of the Knowlton Iron works is in love with his employer's daughter, who has been reared in luxury, and is the idol of her father. To save this woman from the knowledge that her father is a thief, the loyal superintendent takes upon his own shoulders the guilt of her father's crime. After all the stress which the story develops, his sacrifice is learned and rewarded by the woman he loves, who decided to stand with him on the side of the oppressed workmen, to whose cause the superintendent has devoted his life's labor.

SPECIAL CARS WILL CARRY 700 TO GAME

Saturday's Ball Band-Singer Game Has City All Agog. Special Cars to Run.

The Ball Bands have arranged for special cars to carry the large crowd of fans who will accompany them to Singer park for their game with Singers Saturday afternoon, and a special return fare of 15 cents has also been arranged for. The cars will leave Main and Second sts. at 2 o'clock, and from present indications will carry the largest number of rooters that has ever left town.

Tickets for the cars, of which about 400 have already been disposed of, are on sale at Ellsasser's, and it is expected that between 600 and 700 will accompany the local players. Hundreds of megaphones have been manufactured at the Woolen company for the occasion and will be distributed among the rooters.

The cars will make but one stop between Mishawaka and Singer park, and that at Smith st., Mishawaka.

It is urged that all tickets be purchased by Friday night, so as to enable the Ball Bands to arrange for sufficient cars.

CELEBRATED SALOON CASE UP FOR HEARING

Kronewitter is Fighting City of Mishawaka in Elkhart Superior Court Today.

The now celebrated saloon case of Kronewitter against the city came up for hearing before Judge J. L. Harmon in the superior court, Elkhart, Thursday morning, and adjourned at noon until 1:15, when arguments will be heard. The morning was devoted to the reading of affidavits. Kronewitter's attorneys are Stuart McKibben and P. C. Ferguson of South Bend, while the city of Mishawaka is represented by ex-Judge Van Fleet of the circuit court of St. Joseph county. Mayor Ralph Gaylor is the only witness for the city.

Kronewitter is attempting to get a restraining order to keep the police out of his premises until the case is settled at the fall session of the Elkhart court. His attorneys claimed that after the county commissioners granted their client a license, the city officials must stay out of his place. They read affidavits claiming that policemen frequented their client's saloon, drank beer and liquors and were pestering his trade. The affidavits further showed that Sgt. John Jarrett and Motorcycle Officer Potts, who were instructed by Mayor Gaylor and Chief of Police Kreiter, had purchased drinks. This is why Kronewitter wants temporary injunction to keep them out of his saloon.

An affidavit filed by Mayor Gaylor states that Kronewitter or his attorneys did not tender $500 as license money, but Kronewitter claims to have absolute proof from within the city hall that he did so. This case has aroused considerable interest in Mishawaka where its developments are being closely followed. The trouble between Kronewitter and the administration is of long standing.

The outcome is being watched throughout the city with more interest than is usually evinced in such cases.

CIRCUS DAY DRAWS HUNDREDS TO CITY

Coop and Lent's Aggregation of Shows Have Good Parade.

Today was circus day in Mishawaka, and so seldom has the city an opportunity of having one all to itself. It was little wonder that the arrival of the Coop and Lent's three-ring shows should have created so much interest in the city and adjacent communities. Throngs of people witnessed the parade, and the consensus of opinion was that it was by far one of the best ever seen in the city. The splendid horses belonging to the circus elicited much praise, it being remarked that few such aggregations carried such a fine display of horse flesh. The numerous ponies, well groomed, were also much admired, as were the wild animals, clowns, bands and other features which go to make up a real live circus. The parade was a long one, and during its peripatetic was greeted by immense crowds at every point. The afternoon performance at the Borley addition, north side, drew a record crowd, and indications are that a capacity audience will see the circus tonight.

"The House of Fear," one of the greatest programs ever presented at the Lincoln theater, will be shown today. Arrnd Jolly takes the leading part and is ably supported by Charles Laife, Sheldon Lewis, Jeanie Eagles, Inda Hammer, Charles Krauss and William A. Batchel.

Ashton-Kirk is a young man of high social position and great wealth; he is a deep student and learned in the lore of ancient tablets and forgotten books. His keen mind delights in those mysteries which have proven too shadowy for the police. He finds a joy in the hunt; there is a thrill in matching his intelligence against the craft of the criminal.

His interest in the mystery of "The House of Fear"—Cramp's house—was awakened by Pendleton, who, as a guest of Cramp's, communicated to Kirk, his friend, the strange sense of mystery and fear surrounding Cramp's house.

He reviewed the cadets of the naval, cavalry, and woodcraft school, saw the rough riding of the troopers, addressed the students, witnessed their last dress parade of the session and attended the final ball in the evening. DEMOCRATIC EDITORS VIEW INDUSTRIAL CELEBRATION nouncing his candidacy, McCormick is carrying on a whirlwind campaign.

Many of the editors are accompanied by their wives, and although the hotels are crowded because of home-coming week, Michigan City people have been exceedingly hospitable and many of the newspapermen are located in private families.

Following the industrial parade the editors were scheduled for an hour's ride on Lake Michigan aboard the steamer Roosevelt. Someone suggested that riding the Roosevelt was hardly sticking to party lines, but the reply was that Theodore had done the democrats a good turn and his kindness should be appreciated.

To Dine at Prison. At six o'clock tonight the editors, their families and a number of Michigan City people will take dinner at the state prison as the guests of Warden E. J. Fogarty. Following the dinner a vaudeville performance will be given by prisoners. Several of the editors expected to attend the final game of the series between the Haskell & Barker and the Fairbanks-Morse teams at Lakeview park. Each club has won one game and today's contest is exciting much interest among the townsmen here.

Kadine, Donnelly, Riley, Scheneberg, Baumgartner and other members of the Michigan city club are well known to South Bend fans. The editors arrived in Michigan City shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday night, having traveled all day. They were met by a committee of citizens here and conducted to the park, where addresses were delivered by Van Nuys, Philip Zoercher, reporter of state supreme court; George W. Bittler, state treasurer, and Chester A. McCormick, candidate for state senator from this district.

German is Applauded. Zoercher, in the opening speech, declared that there is no reason in the universe for a German not considering himself an American as long as he is a citizen of this country. Zoercher is a German himself and his declarations brought forth much applause.

Immediately preceding the speech making the queen of the centennial celebration, which is being held here, was crowned. Miss Esther Ernest was chosen queen, and more than 10,000 persons saw the coronation and the majority remained to hear the democratic addresses.

Predicts Wilson Victory. "I do not come here with the expectation of telling the members of this association, otherwise of current events, anything new in a political way," said Sen. Van Nuys in opening his address. "I come on request to felicitate with you upon the democratic past, present and promises of the future, which, unless all signs fail, unless the intelligent and prosperous voting public of Indiana are unimpaired, that Woodrow Wilson for president, and John A. M. Adair for governor will receive splendid pluralities, the facts and circumstances warrant."

"I want you veteran editors, grown gray in the service, to remember for but one moment the arguments, claims and demands of the republican party when it was in power as to why it should forever hold possession of the government. Prosperity, the full dinner pail and stand pat were the slogans by which this resourceful party hoodwinked the vast majority of the voters who believed the republican policies were so interwoven and dovetailed into the industrial prosperity of the country that the success of that party was the only safe guarantee for continuous peace and prosperity of this nation."

Challenges Spellbinders. "What republican spellbinder today—even Jim Watson, who has been on the stump for weeks and will have the temerity in fact of conditions today with peace all around us; prosperity, with poverty and bankruptcy at the door of all our sister nations; with the greatest volume of trade in the history of the country, will these spellbinders repeat the sophistries and fallacies in which the old republican party indulged for 20 years?"

"I am revealing no secret in saying that if the speeches of Hughes on his western trip are a criterion, he does not measure up to the high standard and qualifications required for a presidential candidate. In his unfortunate effort to make his issue he finally laid upon Americanism."

Patriotism Still Lives. "Americanism. What is it? Patriotism, surely. That love of country which causes men to sacrifice their homes, property and lives in time of war on the field of battle. One hundred thousand brave American boys are tonight sweltering in their tents along the Mexican border as conclusive proof that patriotism still lives in America—and under Wilson."

"Obedience to law is Americanism, surely. That obedience to law which distinguishes the difference between liberty and license, which recognizes the fundamental principles of leaving off where another man's rights begin. The tens of thousands of railroad employees and employees are tonight trying to solve their differences, locally and peacefully, a conclusive proof that obedience to law still exists in America and on account of Wilson."

Means Civic Pride. "Americanism means civic beauty and civic pride, means good citizenship which keeps nearest of the times, which assumes the workaday beauties of citizenship in the home, in the factory, on the farm, the privilege and beauty of thinking, speaking and voting one's own convictions."

"I do not know how you feel about it, but to me this sudden plea for Americanism in the face of that wholesome Americanism which exists does not carry much weight."

KRAUSE WALKS WITH EASE NOW

Michigan City Man is Confident Tanlac Will Help Many Others.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 23.—Charles F. Krause, bartender at Weiler's saloon, who lives at 317 West Tenth street, Michigan City, gave a statement on August 14, concerning relief he gained through use of Tanlac, the Master Medicine, that will prove of surprising interest to many people of this city, men and women.

"For three years I suffered from rheumatism," Mr. Krause said. "It was most severe. In my ankles and feet I could hardly walk and my feet hurt me constantly. Severe pains in my ankles bothered me and at times the pains would be all over my body. I was confined to my bed for months at a time and, when I was able to get up, I just hobbled around in misery. Nothing I tried seemed to help me."

"I saw statements in the papers of the relief others gained through use of Tanlac and I decided to try this new medicine. I have finished my first bottle of Tanlac now and I'm greatly improved. I can walk a lot better and much easier now. In fact, I can walk from my home to work in fourteen minutes and it used to take me thirty minutes."

"Tanlac certainly has relieved me and I believe that anyone who suffers from rheumatism will find Tanlac beneficial."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial, as Mr. Krause says, for rheumatism, and it also is excellent for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, nervousness, loss of appetite, bloating and belching and the like.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Mishawaka at the Red Cross Pharmacy, where a special Tanlac representative is explaining the new medicine to the public.—Adv.

When coming from a man who is seemingly devoid of conviction on any living issue now before the American people and who has not exercised the privilege of suffrage during the past 10 years.

Defends Prosperity. The speaker also dwelt upon the Underwood tariff law, the federal reserve system and business conditions. He asserted that the present prosperous conditions would continue should the war end within 24 hours. He quoted figures showing that three percent of the goods being manufactured in America are munitions of war and for such uses in Europe. He quoted figures to show that 94 percent of the goods made in this country are manufactured cheaper than in any other country and that there should be no tariff on steel, pointing to Gary where prosperity reigns and the lack of labor is preventing the erecting of a $25,000,000 steel plant.

Dwells on State Affairs. In connection with state affairs, Sen. Van Nuys told of the success of the vocational law and the workmen's compensation act. He declared 113 school units have been established since the passage of the first law with an enrollment of more than 12,000 students. He showed that $225,000 has been paid out to injured employees since the passage of the compensation law, which went into effect Sept. 1, 1915, less than a year ago.

George W. Bittler, treasurer of the state, pointed that Indiana is out of debt for the first time in 84 years. A foreign debt amounting to $650,000 has been paid with $4,000 interest, while the domestic debt of $640,000 has been disposed of while $340,000 is in trust for Purdue university, which cannot be paid except through an act of the legislature. The sinking fund levy will be repealed on this account and there will be a decrease of 11-2 cents in the state tax as a result.

The editors were entertained at the interstate fair grounds on the trip enroute to Michigan City. John C. Ellsworth, Eugene Miller, E. P. Dalley, F. J. Hardy and a number of other South Bend men took the editors and their families over the grounds, inspecting the tracks and enjoying the other features of the park.

International News Service: AMSTERDAM, Aug. 24.—Premier Brattiano of Roumania is ready to intervene on the side of the entente allies, but the various governments have not yet come to an understanding on the question whether Roumania shall have a decisive or only advisory voice in the peace negotiations," says a Bucharest dispatch to the Berliner Tageblatt.
